What is Special Olympics

Special Olympics is a world wide organisation that provides sports training and competition for people with an intellectual disability.

There are over 40 Clubs around New Zealand, training over 5000 athletes of all abilities and assisted by 2300 Volunteers.

With 16 official sports on offer, athletes can train regularly in their chosen sport and progress to compete at local, regional, national and even international competitions.

Benefits of Special Olympics

Getting fit and healthy

Learning fair play and good sportsmanship

Learning respect for others

Improving confidence and self esteem

Learning to problem solve

Sharing in achievements

Learning to cooperate with others

Being part of a team

But most of all, it's about fun & friendship!

What Sports are on Offer?

Who Can Join?

Anybody with a recognised intellectual disability can start training and become a member of a Special Olympics Club.

Special Olympics Clubs

Special Olympics Clubs offer year round sports training and competition. Training is organised weekly, fortnightly or seasonally depending upon the sport's requirements. Clubs operate for 40-42 weeks of the year and are managed by volunteer committees.

Special Olympics is a rapidly growing organisation, so if there is not a local Club in your area, please contact us to talk about future possibilities.

Parent Testimonial

"I took our son down to Athletics last week and it was amazing. I have never seen him so happy and it's the first time I have ever seen him fit in anywhere. He was so proud of himself when he came second in a running race... it was the first time he didn't come last in his whole life. Athletics is all he can talk about now which is a nice change. Thank you so much for letting him join".

So what are you waiting for?

Contact the Special Olympics Regional Coordinator in your area today and start enjoying the rewards of friendship and achievement through new found abilities.

Volunteer opportunities are also available within Special Olympics. Whether you would like to be involved as a regular or casual volunteer - we can find a role that suits!
